In the current application, the "Car Wash" section of the pylon sign is noted as 36" high and the "Energy North Group" section of the pylon sign is noted as 18" high. However, in the 2012 permit, the heights of these two sections of the sign are noted as 30" and 15", respectively. Can you confirm which are the correct measurements, and whether there has been any actual change in the size of these sign sections over the years? Because these are already non-conforming in size, it is important that we have accurate information.
