I just have one more question for some clarification, I want to make sure I get this right. Is a narrative of the work all you are looking for? All the proposed structural changes and improvements are documented in the plans that I submitted. Thanks

On the Project Description on the application you could put something like, "Major structural improvements, please see attached" and then provide a separate page/document that goes more into the logistics of what you are doing. Please note: ALL items checked on the fast track form must comply with your scope of work.

I will resubmit the general building permit application. There wasn't enough room include the entire scope of work in the space allotted. The plans showed all of the changes in the interior from the existing floor plan to the proposed changes so I thought that would be acceptable. I have contacted the designer for a stamped set of plans. I thought the PDF he supplied me and I sent it where stamped.

You claim a lot of work on your fast track form, which was not showing with your building permit application or did you provide documentation/plans. Finally, any additions of dormers, etc, need all plans stamped by a design professional as required on the fast track form. This being said, the application cannot be fast tracked as provided. Unfortunately, there is too much unknown between your fast track form and your actual building permit application and your provided plans. Once we get a complete application package, as required, we can enter this.

I have attached the required documents in PDF form for a building permit at 9 Merrill Street and for possible fast track.
