

23. HVAC Equipment

At this point in the building design process it is too early to have specific equipment selected. As the construction management company works through the building's design development and specific equipment (manufacturers and models) is specified cut sheets will be submitted to Staff for review and approval.