Good morning,

Attached please find the HVAC permit application for a project at 443 Congress Street. I have also included any additional information that we had regarding the scope of this project. We are being contracted by the owner to replace two existing oil fired boilers with two natural gas fired boilers. We are also changing the existing electric roof top units with new units that have natural gas fired burners in them. Please feel free to contact me with any questions or issues.

Thank you,

Jim Roy

Your contractor should know the process, but you will need an HVAC permit for all the work. Please check this link:

We just went through a permit process on a new construction, what is the process for old construction?

We have an old building at the above location that is getting natural gas to it, they want to take out two old oil boilers and install a new gas boiler, they also want to change eight (8) roof top units from electric to gas /electric.

They would like us to get moving on this right off due to weather, what would the permit process be, Unutil has already brought gas to the site. Part of this will be removal of old oil tank as well, State has deemed this as an underground unit based on it being partially buried, we have Precision Tanks involved with this.

Please let us know, the Owners are awaiting finalization and permitting.

Thanks
