Dear Sir or Madam,

I recently visited City Hall in person to apply for a building permit the way I always have since purchasing my property at 6 Milk St., Portland in Sept. of 1976. I was told that all applications would be received using only computer technology instead of hand delivery.

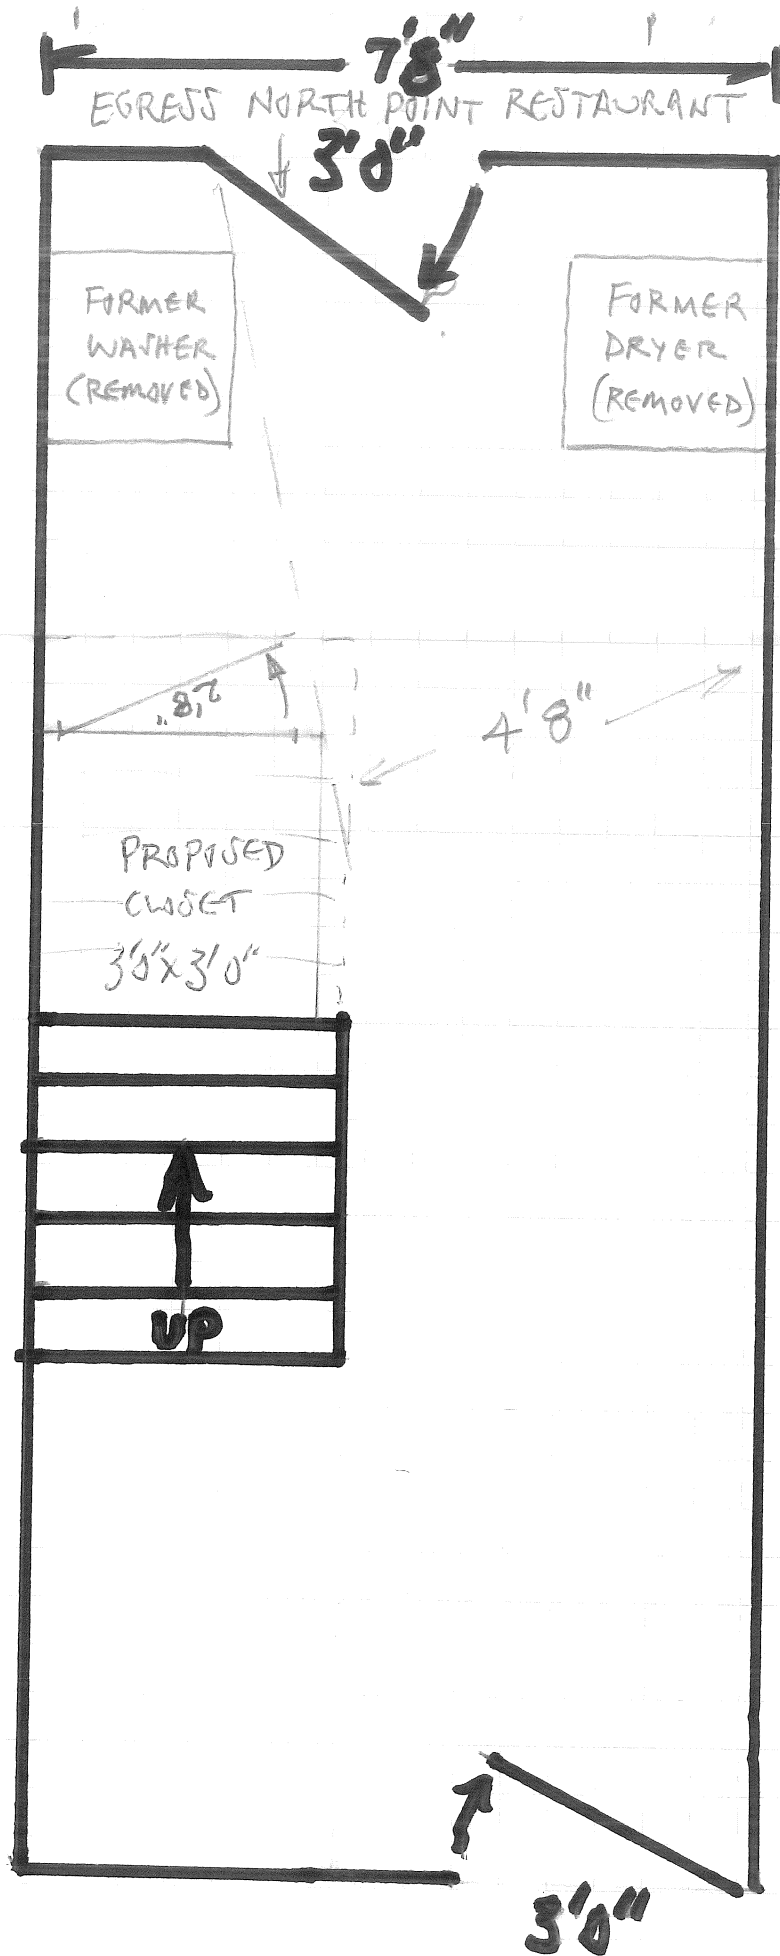

I don't know a PDF from a zip file, I don't have any idea how all of that is done. I can take a picture and get it to someone using e-mail, I can make a copy of something etc., but the rest of this methodology is up to people who by necessity have immersed themselves in this modern convenience.

In looking over what I am proposing, it occurs to me that what I would like to do may not require a permit. I was instructed to remove a washer and dryer (both free standing units) from a common hallway to make adequate room for emergency egress for a restaurant that began operation Jan. of 2013. My current plan as you will see on my drawing is to put a stacking washer/dryer in a new location where egress is not narrowed. Plumbing and wiring are already in place.

Hopefully you agree, but if I need to meet with someone on site please contact me by cellphone at 380 6940 or e-mail at tbwittbuilder@gmail.com

Sincerely,

Tom Witt
