Hi Brian,

A couple questions on your permit application -

First, the tax records still list Gerald Knecht as owner. Can you e-mail me a copy of your deed to the property, just so we can verify your right/title/interest to the condo?

Second, in most condominiums the roof is considered commonly-owned area. Has the condo association granted approval for the deck expansion and if so could you e-mail me a copy of any approval or board minutes on this?

Thanks so much,
Chris

Christina—

Attached is a copy of the deed, per your request.

The Condo Association is aware of the project. The President indicated to me that they have no action to take as under our bylaws, the deck is considered a "limited common element" and is for the exclusive use by my unit, #9. Attached is the excerpt of the bylaws.

B. Limited Common Elements. Limited Common Elements, the exclusive use of which is reserved to the use of a particular Unit, to the exclusion of other Units, consist of the following:

1. For each Residential Unit only, a single exterior parking space being the Unit's number, all as shown and assigned on the Plan;
2. For the Residential Units only, the vestibules and common area staircases providing access to the Residential Units and the Laundry Room, all as shown on the Floor Plans;
3. For the Residential Units located on each floor, the hallway providing access to the common to the Residential Units located on that floor, all as shown on the Floor Plans;
5. For Unit #9 only, the exterior deck area and supports located above the roof membrane as shown on the Floor Plans;
6. For the Commercial Units only, the exterior HVAC equipment and related piping and electrical connections located on the ground outside each Unit as shown on the Plan; and
