Evan

My apologies- I did receive that e-mail but overlooked it when I got into work on Monday.

I have discussed it with the Urban Design Reviewer Caitlin and can confirm that we agree that the roof mounted units do not need screening- as long as they are located where they are shown in the video. If that changes we would like to review the question again.

thank you
Jean

Jean,

We do not intend to install any screening of the rooftop units. I hope that this video helps you to see why. Our parapets and the locations of the units keeps them quite screened from view in most locations.

Thank you,
