6/27/2006-mjn: left message w/Barlo sign, the overhanging sign appears to exceed the limitations of Sectionb 3202.3.1 of the building code. Will also want some engineering.

> Hi,

> I found we built that light box... and I am not saying we didn't get a permit but if we didn't I suspect we did so because its not really a sign for advertising. (in sign company terms.) When it went up it had community service info and a local map inside the sign face. As far as I know they replace the paperwork inside the case from time to time with various info.

Carrie Marsh - Re: Appeal Process for PAD Signs

Carrie:

About those signs... I glanced at the zoning and site plan, and haven't found any sound basis to justify a denial of the internally illuminated signs. Deb, what has your experience been on these? Is there a compromise, like allow the illuminated projecting sign, but not the two at the entrance?

14-368(g) refers to the Downtown Urban Design Guidelines. What standards are germane from there?

If we deny it or approve it conditionally, is it appealable to the Planning Board? It would be if it was being reviewed under the site plan standards, but that happens when the sign doesn't meet the 14-369.5 provisions. We can approve larger signs under site plan standard 22. But that isn't the case here, is it?

Carrie, maybe it would be useful to put this on the agenda for tomorrow, to get Penny and other input.

>>> Marge Schmuckal 05/16/2006 2:28:41 PM >>>

Section 14-368.5.g of the sign ordinance states: "Any application for a permit or other approval under this division whose application has been denied for failure to meet the regulations contained in 14-369.5 may apply to the planning authority for review of the denied signage pursuant to the standards set forth in 14-526(a)(22), provided, however, that no site plan fee shall be required for this review and no site plan submission materials shall be required beyond those necessary to allow review under this section".

I reviewed the PAD Signage Standards with regard to the proposed signage for the Portland Harbor Hotel. Below are the sections that I feel apply to the requests that we have made for a higher quality design than what is currently proposed.

Design

- i. The design of signage should be respectful of the building on which it is located, carefully designed to fit a given facade complimenting the building's architectural features. Signage inconsistent with the architectural style of a building...is not appropriate.
- ii. The design of signage should be oriented and scaled to reflect the scale and character of movement of people around the building, with an emphasis on the pedestrian and slow-moving traffic.
- iii. Design, selection of materials, and workmanship shall be of high quality in appearance and character, complementary to the materials and character of the building, and convey a sense of permanence and durability.

Illumination

- ii. Illumination of signage should be compatible with the character of illumination already existing on the building and on surrounding buildings, on existing appropriate signs in the vicinity, and the character of illumination along the pedestrian areas adjacent to the building. Where internal illumination of a sign causes the scale of the sign to become excessive in relation to architectural features of the building for to the sign thickness necessary to accommodate internal devices, alternative lighting should be considered. Backlighting of individual letters may be an acceptable alternative.

Placement and Location

- iv. Generally, the placement of signage should occur below the sill of the second story windows.

That is pretty good language that we can hang our hat upon. Are there any existing internally illuminated signs on the building? Suggest approving it conditionally as a possibility, if we are at the end of our working relationship w/ applicant.

Alex.
