Deb left me three lengthy messages this week as well. Essentially she is upset that the City has determined no noise violation exists (Chuck, in my opinion, did his due diligence, was responsive, took dB readings, etc.). We went above and beyond by providing a free mediation session between her and the owner of Aurora some months ago.

I called her back this week and told her I am sorry that our efforts to create a situation for the two neighbors to work together on this issue were unsuccessful, but that further city involvement, in the absence of a violation, would be inappropriate. I advised her to consult a private attorney.

I intercepted a call to Jeff in regards to the above. Deborah McCoy (774-1095) the landlord from 185-187 Clark Street is calling to complain on the decibel levels of Aurora Provisions refrigeration unit in a residential business zone. She is stating that she has been advised that the levels are higher than what the state code allows. She mentioned that this has gone to mediation and that is on your radar so I'm forwarding this message to all of you and ask that someone give her a call back.

Thanks,

Desiree
