Good afternoon Jeanie!

I've marked (red circles) the plan to show that there are two doors that enter into the storage space and connect the spaces so there will be no taking down or building of a doorway. As far as the tables and chairs, I won't be building a wall bench. There will be 2 chairs at each table against the wall to make as much space as possible. Each table is 23" w x 25" l and 29" tall. As far as the space that looks weirdly open in the front it's actually the front entryway. I was trying to use an app but I couldn't get it right and I'm in no way an architect or pro blueprint drawer. Each room has a public bathroom, in the proposed space it is located at the back of the room. I will mark this area as well. If you've got any other questions or concerns please feel free to contact me
