REMARKS:

Handwriting practice lines for the letter 'a'. The image shows four rows of the letter 'a' written on four-line guides. Each row contains five 'a's. The first row shows the letter formed by a single continuous stroke. The second row shows the letter formed by two strokes: a counter-clockwise circle followed by a vertical line down. The third and fourth rows show variations of the letter, possibly with different stroke orders or styles, though they are less distinct than the first two rows.
