Hi, we did receive your submittal. It looks like this application accounts for the closet work only. You don't need a permit to take down and change up cabinets (unless you are taking down or putting up walls to do so). That being said, and assuming the only permitted work you are requesting is the closet, we do need some construction drawings on how you are constructing that closet. According to your documents, we would need a cross section/framing detail just showing how you are closing in that new closet. Please get that to us ASAP.

Hi, sorry, also a full floor plan is a requirement, not just the room within that floor you are working in. The floor plan needs to be dimensioned or to scale and show all rooms on that floor and the location of work "highlighted" in some way. Please provide a full floor plan with the framing detail requested before.

We are removing closets, not constructing closets, so I'm not sure what you need for: "we do need some construction drawings on how you are constructing that closet". Is a full floor plan highlighting where the existing closets are that are being removed sufficient?

Are you removing any walls? Then are you constructing new walls to close in that "new" closet? That's considered construction and you need to show us how that new wall is being built. A floor plan has nothing to do with showing the construction of any wall. A full floor plan is the requirement to see where, within the building, you are working.

We received your payment; thank you.

Now that payment has been made, the permit will begin the review process. Currently, permits have been taking an average of 30 business days for completion. If your project fit the fast trackable projects list, and a completed fast track application was provided, then 15 business days is the average. Either way, once the permit has been issued, it will be delivered to the e-mail address on record. For your convenience, you can review permit status on line: <http://www.portlandmaine.gov/792/Permit-Status> (Please reference the address or Permit ID # notated on the invoice.)

This is not an approval of your permit. Work cannot commence until the permit is issued.
