Please find attached drawings for addition of knee walls around boarded floor area in attic. There will be no structural or exterior changes to the building. The proposal is to make a usable storage and work area using the boarded part of the attic. Insulation and drywall would be added, and a door between the finished and unfinished area.

Electrical outlets and lights to be added, I would like to combine the electrical work with replacing an old Federal Pacific breaker box in the basement.

Is a wiring diagram required as part of the building permit application, or is that all separate for the electrician to do and apply for?

Thank you
