the span.

Using foundation wall uniformly 10" thick, a

Gentlemen:

One discrepancy with regard to zoning yard dimensions, and a number of omissions and discrepancies in the plans and application, prevents us from completing our check of the application for the permit.

The location or site plan shows the rear porch to be at the rear of the building and a left side yard of 10 feet. The architectural floor plan shows the rear porch to be on the left side of the building, to be 3 feet wide; thus leaving a side yard 7 feet wide in an R-3 Residential Zone where the minimum is 8 feet.

No second floor plan appears, so we are unable to check the strength of the center girder and the second floor joists.

The application indicates the pitch of the roof to be 10" to the foot. Section of front wall on the plan indicates 5" to the foot, but scales about 6"; section of rear wall is marked 10" to the foot and scales 7"; another section evidently taken through rear wall indicates 10" to the foot, but scales 12" to the foot.

There is some reason to believe that the plan showing the architectural elevation does not apply to the same house as the sheet showing the first floor plan, since the former shows the mullion window on the left front elevation and the latter shows the mullion window on the right. The end elevations and the rear elevation does not agree with the first floor plan either.

Since the Building Code requires that plans and application shall comply with the Building Code and Zoning Ordinance before issuance of the permit, and Sec. 104c requires that a copy of all such papers shall be kept in the permanent file of the Department, it is important that these papers show the facts and be consistent one with the other, otherwise the files would be of little value especially in the case of future alterations when our record is of great importance to the owner at that time.

Very truly yours,

Warren McDonald
Acting Deputy Inspr. of Bldgs.

Gentlemen:

Although appeals concerning front yard setbacks for proposed dwellings at the above named locations have been sustained by the Board of Appeals, neither permit application has been completed by filing architectural plans and paying the permit fee. No further action can be taken on either of these applications until this has been done.

Gentlemen:

Building permit for construction of a one and one-half story dwelling 24 feet by 32 feet at the above named location is not issuable because you propose to locate the front wall of the building only 28 feet back from the street line of Brighton Avenue instead of providing the setback of 40 feet required by Section 21 of the Zoning Ordinance applying to that part of Brighton Avenue where the property is located.

We understand that you would like to exercise your appeal rights concerning this discrepancy. Accordingly we are certifying the case to the Corporation Counsel at whose office appeals are filed.
